Understood and that makes very good sense. What you describe will work well to the extent that it demonstrates our efforts and mutual interests in eventually establishing an MOU between our institutions. Yes, we can add your letter to our proposal packet in early June.

thank you!

Josh,

I am so thrilled that our cooperation seems like it will pay off for students. These classes that we already have on books go right with your degree proposal (like the FNR, AG Soils, etc...).

The agreement on our end, however, is a little bit premature in the sense that we can't really agree to something that doesn't yet exist on our end. Here is our process (we are at Step 1 below and a formal agreement like an MOU would likely be the last step on this list):

1. The idea of creating a Cannabis Studies AA degree is proposed to our Program Viability Committee (PVC) for consideration.
2. If the PVC approves the creation of the degree, that recommendation goes to the college president for formal authorization
3. Once that authorization occurs, the faculty create the new course(s) and the degree proposal and put those through our curricular processes
4. Once the materials go through our local approval processes, culminating in approval by our local Board of Trustees, they go to the state Chancellor's Office for approval
5. Once the Chancellor's Office approves the degree and courses, we can articulate with CSUs and do all of the things you are recommending in your email, including the creation of the MOU that you describe.

So, at this stage Pete and I are willing to draft a brief letter explaining what we have accomplished so far and the ways that we have worked together in terms of the genesis of these degrees so that they facilitate easy transfer for students. We can't really create an MOU at this time, however.

Things are so crazy now that Pete and I could probably have a letter for you by early June, if that works.

Thank you George and my apologies for the slow response; like you we are approaching the end of an unreal academic year!

Good to see confirmation that both the GSP and Soils course each articulate with HSU courses.

In addition to the already established articulation agreements for FNR 31 and AG 17, we would like to accept the Sociology Intro to Cannabis Studies (3 unit) course as meeting the requirements or CANN 120 Intro to Cannabis Studies (3 units). As I said when we spoke, it is not unusual for two LD courses in the same area (e.g., Addiction Studies 12: Substance Abuse Law, Prevention, Treatment, Ethics AND Sociology 13: Environment, Culture, Society) to count for one UD major elective. I believe this occurs during transfer advising rather than as part of a formalized articulation agreement.

However, I am looping our articulation officer, Jenni Robinson, into this thread as I understood that we'll need to develop specific CR --> HSU transfer agreements for Cannabis Studies as it is not yet a recognized degree program. Am I understanding this correctly Jenni?

In the meantime, can you provide a letter of support for our Cannabis Studies proposal that describes CR's interest in providing transfer pathways for Cannabis Studies students to continue their education at HSU?

best,

Josh

Dominic and Josh,

It was great speaking with you both earlier. I just found out that our Geospatial course (FNR 31) articulates with your GSP 101/101L and our AG 17 (Soil Science) articulates with your SOIL 260.

That makes me even more confident that we can make this work really well for our students. I have attached the most recent updated draft of our degree to this email.

Hey George!

FNR 31 is articulated to HSU's GSP 101/101L.

AG 17 is articulated to SOIL 260.

Hope this helps!

JB

Jen,

Can you tell me which HSU courses match FNR 31 and AG 17 at HSU?

Thanks!
